4.3.5.2 Details of library usage by teachers and students

Library is automated using Integrated Library Management System (ILMS). Describe the Management System of the Library within 100 - 200 words

SVCON library is using koha automation software (Version 22.11.03.000) it is implemented since 2023. Purchased from informatics India. Books and other reading material are accessible through OPAC.

The College Library has embraced the modern era of library management through the implementation of the Integrated Library Management System known as KOHA. This open source software operates on a local server, providing a dynamic and efficient solution for library automation.

Koha encompasses modules for acquisitions, circulation and patron management, cataloging, serials management, authorities, flexible reporting, label printing, multi-format notices, administration, Web-OPAC, offline circulation (for instances when Internet access is unavailable), and much more. It caters to libraries of all sizes, including consortia, multi branch, multilingual and translatable, adheres to library standards, offers web-based interfaces, operates on open-source principles, and is suitable for both single-branch and multi-branch libraries.

Provide various online member services complete record of books is also maintained through this software.

Functionary this is online software for the listed functions

Membership of the library is also given by the software. Books are tagged with their unique barcode that intimates the status of book. All modules of software are extremely useful, responsive and time saving.
